Wolfsberg Think Tank

Date: Tuesday, 14 September 2004, 10.00 a.m. to 1.00 p.m., followed by buffet dinner

Topic: How to Convince People without Words

Led by: Carlos Martínez, Mime Artist and Theatre Expert, Barcelona

Dear Sir/Madam

From infancy, we are taught to speak, to write and to read... but we are seldom taught how to release the language of mime that is trapped inside of us. Non-verbal communication brings the freedom to communicate in places and situations where the spoken word can sometimes create even more hurt and confusion. What is body language? Learn its grammar. Practice its rhythm. Discover its poetry. As you "hear with your eyes", the gestures of others will become more visible, your own body language will become more fluent, and you will discover how, without words, to convince people.

Carlos Martínez, the world-famous mime artiste, creates a world of imaginative silence that combines his Mediterranean spirit and humour with precise technique and rhythm. However, his very personal language is also universal, giving him an open stage in conventions, festivals, television, theatres and trade shows around the globe. He is constantly moving the boundaries of silence in his own shows, such as Books without Words, Silent Night, and most recently Human Rights. He runs an elite summer mime school, tutors advanced students, and gives Masterclasses at corporate events. His recent clients include Swiss International Air Lines, BPRG (Berner Public Relations Gesellschaft), and the Rockwell Trade Show in Madrid.
